

IMPORTANT NOTICE

BUILDING CODE CONFORMANCE INSTALLER RESPONSIBILITIES

Date: December 12, 2019

Dear Customer:

CertMark International who are the CodeMark Accreditation Authority have sent to “All CodeMark Certificate Holders” an Advisory Notice (reference CMI Advisory Notice: 11.1/2019 - CodeMark Scheme Certification) which is available on <https://certmark.org/documents/> and on the Exsulite website at www.exsulite.com.au

Dulux recommends that all installers of Exsulite Systems read and understand this advisory notice.

State Regulators, Aust Building Codes Board and JAZ-ANZ require building products/systems that are CodeMark Certified Systems must be installed strictly in accordance with the CodeMark Certificate of Conformity and be relevant to the specific Project Building Code.

Prior to any system installation, you should check the job requirements against the proposed Exsulite System CodeMark Certificate of Conformity that you are about to install, to satisfy yourself that the proposed Exsulite System is in accordance with the building surveyors' planning approvals for that specific job site.

Any failure to follow the Exsulite installation guidelines and specifications will mean that the Exsulite CodeMark Certification is not valid for that installation, and compliance to NCC cannot be claimed for that specific job site.

We draw your attention to the following:

Where the product/system has NOT been installed strictly in accordance with the CodeMark Certificate conditions and associated installation guide, the CodeMark Certification and National Construction Code (NCC) compliance will be deemed void.

- Where this occurs:
- the installed system will need to be reassessed and will require an alternative building solution to demonstrate compliance to the National Construction Code (e.g. through a “Performance Solution” approved by a qualified engineer); and
- the CodeMark Certificate of Conformity will be withdrawn from that specific job site under the NCC requirements.
